

7200 Trust

Membership Form & Information

Your opportunity to join and support us

The 7200 Trust has been formed to restore to mainline working condition one of the largest and heaviest freight tank locomotives built in this country. Built by the Great Western Railway originally as a 2-8-0 for use in South Wales hauling heavy coal trains, it became redundant in this traffic as coal usage became less. Later the locomotive was converted into its present form with an extra set of trailing wheels and a larger coal bunker to give increased range.

The class was predominantly used on heavy freight workings over much of the GWR main lines, but were occasionally used on summer passenger reliefs and empty stock workings. Many of its class were shedded locally at Banbury, Oxford, Slough and Southall.

Weighing in at 95 tons in full working order it is hoped to use her when fully restored here at Quainton and on visits to other preserved railways and steam centres, when once again the sharp bark of her exhaust will be heard.

Help to return 7200 to steam

The Working Party definitely needs more people of all skills and meets every two weeks. The jobs are varied and will suit all ages.

This is the unique prototype heavy freight engine and by joining you too can be involved in this project.

All working members must be members of Quainton Railway Society for insurance purposes.
